

CENTURY SENTINEL

VOLUME 30, NO. 3 WINTER 2015

100th Division's 2013 entry in the Fort Knox "Christmas Card" Contest. 1st Place Winner

PRESIDENT'S MESSAGE

Janie Diamond, CW5 (R)

I am very excited about serving as your Association of the Century (AOC) President for the next year. It is an honor to be part of this organization, we have so many things to be proud of. In the past twelve months we have mailed fifty SOS packets to deployed Soldiers. The feedback from the recipients of those packets tell stories of thankfulness and appreciation in knowing that their contributions are recognized. This summer we awarded eight $1,000.00 scholarships to deserving students with 100th Division family ties. Those young people and many others are the future of our nation and they all have so much potential. It was a pleasure to meet the ones that were at the meeting and to review all the packets.

As with any organization, change is a constant. This year we have lost many dear friends and fellow Soldiers, one laid to rest just recently. We also have several of our key board members who have stepped down for various reasons. I will tell you the central theme is prioritizing their commitments between families, church, volunteer organizations, and other opportunities, we all have to do that periodically. I know I do, there is never enough of that elusive quantity "time". Even in retirement, I find myself overcommitting and constantly having to reevaluate to keep away from that great modern affliction "business". I will tell you that all our losses hurt and the contributions of the members leaving the board were immeasurable, we will sorely miss them and their involvement. I will also tell you that we have many members who are willing to step up and try and fill their shoes in the best possible way. That is what makes the AOC different in my opinion. We have so many members with diverse talents and gifts, officers and NCOs alike. The fact that our organization's sole purpose is not having meetings but helping Soldiers and their families is what keeps our dedicated members volunteering and is key to our longevity and success. Another change that I am happy to report is that we now have three female members serving on the board and one as President, yours truly. From someone who joined the 100th Division when it was the "Men of the Century", I really like this trend and encourage more involvement from the women in our organization. If any of you, male or female, would like to take a more active part, there is always much to do with the museum, committees, annual meeting, and projects, please contact me at diamond.janie@twc.com. I welcome your feedback and input.

I want to thank everyone that attended our annual meeting at the Brown Hotel this year, what a great time! Our 2016 meeting will once again be in Bowling Green and I know it will be even more outstanding. Please mark your calendars for 27 August 2016 and plan to attend.

Since this is our holiday newsletter I want to wish all of you and your families the very best this Christmas season. I would like to share my wish list with you. When my children were young their lists were a big part of the preparation for Christmas. My daughter always had a lengthy list where things got crossed out and added on to many times, my son's lists were always shorter but he wanted larger more expensive items, think X-Box as opposed to a My Little Pony Doll. The first time they came and asked me what I wanted for Christmas, for my list, before presenting theirs was a proud occasion for me as a parent. Of course, I always gave them my standard answer, I wanted peace on earth and good will toward all men. This year I am giving my list more thought and this is what I would like to ask for;

A Thankful Heart – one that sees the abundant beauty and joy that we are blessed with every day we are here on earth.

The Joy of Giving to Others - without expecting anything in return, I have found this to be one of the greatest of gifts.

Peace of Mind - it seems the older I get the more elusive that peaceful nature that lets you lay down at night and sleep truly resting in the knowledge that all is right with the world. I want to lay aside the tragic and concentrate on the good.

Time – or really the ability to choose wisely and to spend the right amount on the things that matter most.

And if I may be so bold, I wish these things for all of you.

Janie Diamond
CW5 (Ret), President

THE CHAIRMAN'S FOXHOLE
MG Bill Barron, U.S. Army Retired

Normally I write about the 100th Division or the AOC but this time I would like to offer a strategic look at Fort Knox, Kentucky, home of the Century Division. I first came to Fort Knox in 1966 as an Army Private to participate in what the 100th Division called "Rep Train" which was basically two compressed weeks of basic combat training subjects for all new enlistees in the Army Reserve. Over the next 49 years I maintained a fairly regular schedule of visits to this installation in various military roles and most recently as the Executive Director of the CORE Committee since 2003.

Most everyone is aware that the Armor Center and School moved from Fort Knox to Fort Benning, GA as a result of the 2005 Base Realignment and Closure Act. That same round of BRAC directed that the 100th Division move its HQs from Bowman Field in Louisville, KY to Fort Knox which happened in 2011 and since that time additional Army Reserve General Officer Commands that now call Fort Knox home include the 84th Training Command and the 11th Theater Aviation Command. Another significant Army Reserve Training element calling Fort Knox home is the 83d Army Reserve Readiness Training Center or ARRTC command by a Colonel which is responsible for training all the full time support in USAR units. Together these robust USAR training units have a throughput of over 15,000 students per year at Knox.

The reason that these units are stationed at Fort Knox should come as no surprise. Fort Knox has plenty of available space to include billeting, classrooms, training areas and world class ranges that can handle essentially any type of munitions the Army has to fire. The fact that the installation is geographically located in the center of the United States and easily accessible by air and interstate highways is an added bonus and was one of the reasons that the US Army Cadet Command moved its ROTC ‘Advanced Camp’ from Ft. Lewis, Washington to Fort Knox two years ago. Having said all that, it will not surprise me to see additional Army Reserve Units re-station to Fort Knox in the next several years. Many of you have spent many a miserable cold day training at Fort McCoy, WI not to mention the struggle to get in and out of that area by commercial air in the winter. Why not move that training to Fort Knox and train comfortably pretty much year round? My educated guess is that the Army will experience another round of BRAC in 2018/2019. When that occurs, Fort Knox will surely be a ‘gainer’ due to the reasons I mentioned earlier. In fact, I think you will see Fort Knox become a premier Army Reserve Regional Training Center of Excellence and the Fightin’ 100th will help lead the charge!

In closing, the AOC has experienced a tremendously successful year in 2015 thanks to the leadership provided by our dedicated Board of Directors. Our Association’s Scholarship Program, our Support our Soldier Program and our Century Division Museum are equaled by no other Army Reserve Unit. Be proud that you are part of our success. On a sad note, we have lost a number of fellow Century Men from our ranks this past year which always reminds me of the value of attending our Annual AOC Reunion. This year’s date is Saturday, August 27, 2016 and Bowling Green, KY is the location. Mark your calendar now to attend.

To those of you reading this that I have known and served with for decades in the 100th and to those I have not yet had the pleasure of meeting –
*Best Wishes for the Happiest of Holiday Seasons –
 God Bless Each of You and God Bless each US Service Member who walks ‘point’ every day and night for our Freedom!*

TREASURER’S REPORT

(LTC) G. Kenneth Kapp, AOC Treasurer

With the success of the Thirty-Fifth Annual Reunion Meeting, the Association was able to donate $2,000 to the MG Benjamin J. Butler “Century Division” Scholarship Fund. This will build and insure the Endowment Fund’s ability to sponsor grants for worthy award winners for years to come.

At the one day meeting, 114 people attended lunch and 128 people attended dinner. Both the Auction and Raffle at the dinner set new highs; total receipts were $1,635 and $1,306 respectively for the two events. Over the day’s reunion $165 was collected for the SOS Program and $100 in donations for the Scholarship Fund were received.

AOC received applications for 4 new annual and 3 new life memberships during this year’s reunion. Please plan on joining us at the 36th Annual Association of the Century Reunion, Saturday, August 27, 2016, in Bowling Green.

HOLIDAY WISHES FROM BG JASON
 WALRATH, COMMANDING GENERAL, 100TH
 DIVISION

Fellow Association Members,

As I write this note the last leaves of fall are dropping and the weather is getting colder, wetter and the day shorter. We’re on the precipice of the Holiday Season and almost time for the Walrath’s to come off our active tour and leave Fort Knox. It’s been a rewarding experience personally and professionally; we’ll remember this time fondly and are thankful for the opportunity.

I’m also thankful for the relationship the current 100th Division has with the Association of the Century. Your support over the years and willingness to engage is unmatched among the other USAR commands. Your legacy provides meaning to those of us currently serving and reminds all that we are part of a larger military family. We are thankful for what you all do and look forward to additional partnering opportunities in the coming year. I hope this finds you and your families well. Merry Christmas and Happy New Year.

Kindest of personal regards,

Jason Walrath

Note: BG Walrath has been on active duty orders and living in quarters on Fort Knox for the past several months while commanding the 100th Division. He was joined by wife Kathi, son Jake and daughter Olivia who have all been great additions to the Fort Knox and local communities. Those orders will end in mid-December with the Walrath Family returning back home to Texas. BG Walrath will remain in command of the 100th as a TPU Soldier until the end of his Command tour.

New Fort Knox Gate Entry Requirements

On 1 December 2015, Fort Knox started a new procedure for us to enter the base. Briefly, it says those of us who have valid military ID card or Common Access Card (CAC) will have no change. Also, those who have entered Fort Knox in recent months with only their driver's license should have no change in procedure. However, those without a military ID or CAC card and those who haven't presented their driver's license to gate guards in recent months will need to go directly to the Visitors Center at the Main Chaffee Gate, go inside and present a valid driver's license and wait briefly while gate personnel enter you in the system. After you're entered, on your future trips, you can just drive directly to the gate and they'll pull up your driver's license information from the computer.

The General’s “Franklin Club” Challenge to AOC Senior Life Members

On January 1, 2016 Generals Barron and Tindall are initiating a challenge to our ‘Senior’ Association of the Century Life Members to write a check for $100.00 to the AOC ‘Franklin Club’ to help fund a ‘second time around’ for this great organization long after many of us have gone on to Fiddler’s Green.

The AOC was founded in 1978 by the late MG Charles Beach, Jr. past Commanding General of the 100th. Most of the Association’s life members like General Tindall and I, chose early on to purchase a life membership in the Association some twenty five or more years ago for $100.00. From a dues standpoint, that means that many of our early life members have not had an opportunity to make a monetary contribution to the AOC for decades while enjoying our quality newsletter, The Century Sentinel, watching grandkids receive $1,000 AOC scholarships and having access to first class social events at our Annual Reunions. If you bought a $100.00 AOC life membership in 1985, your annual membership dues over that thirty year period equates to slightly over $3.00 per year. That’s pretty hard to beat considering AOC annual membership dues are currently $15.00 which is underpriced for any other professional organization of similar quality that I belong to such as AUSA, MOAA and MOWW and others. Had it not been for serving in the 100th Division, General Tindall and I along with many other fellow Century men and women reading this would have never completed 20 qualifying years in the Army towards that retirement check and the life-long medical care that we enjoy today. I am not embarrassed to say that I am genuinely indebted to the 100th Division for the opportunity it presented to me to accumulate 20 good years of qualifying service toward military retirement and first class medical coverage.

Renewing your personal commitment to help financially support the AOC is a great way to say thanks to both the 100th Division and the AOC for the benefits that we have all received for many years. If you are unable to join us at our Annual Reunions or participate in other ways, then this is a great way for you to remain active as a sustaining member of the AOC and proud supporter of the Century Division.

Two payment options available for your convenience:

1. A single lump sum payment of $100.00 made by February 1, 2016
2. Two equal payments of $50.00 each with the first payment due February 1, 2016 and the second payment due March 1, 2016.

You may choose one or more of the three AOC Programs below that you want your contribution to support by making a note on the memo line of your check.

1. MG Benjamin Butler Scholarship Fund – to help fund $1,000 scholarships
2. Support our Soldiers (SOS) Fund – to support current 100th Division Soldiers
3. Century Division Museum Fund – to help maintain 100th Division history

It's easy! Choose how you want to pay and where you want your money to go then mail to Ken Kapp, AOC Treasurer at:

A Time for Thanks and a Time for Giving

The holiday season is upon us. Now is the perfect opportunity to introduce myself, say thank you, and begin giving back to the Soldiers of the Century. When I first entered the 100th Division, as a Simultaneous Membership Program (SMP) Cadet back in 1983, I could never have begun to imagine the incredibly rewarding 32 year journey; I would take as a Soldier of the Century. This journey was filled with a wide variety of challenging assignments, incredible self-development opportunities, and genuine, often stern, yet compassionate mentorship from both fellow officers and NCOs, a true appreciation for high standards of excellence in training and friendships that have outlasted my time in uniform. These are just few of the things for which I am truly grateful and for which wish to express my deepest appreciation and thanks to all of those who helped shape me into the officer, Soldier, father, husband and man that I have become. None of this would have been possible without the 100th Division and its' members. Thank you!

Now is time for giving. When I retired from the Reserves, this past June, I knew I needed to give back. Life without involvement in the 100th Division, seemed unfathomable. Fortunately, I was nominated and selected to serve as a member of the Board of Director for The Association of the Century. I am humbled and honored by the opportunity to continue serving our Soldiers, our Division and our Association. In this small way I hope to give back to the Division.

In a similar vein, I would challenge all of my fellow former and current 100th Division Soldiers, to give back. Whether it is renewing your membership to the Association of the Century, volunteering your time to help work the Association's Museum, volunteer at the Association's Annual Banquet, or simply call an old friend and fellow Soldier from the 100th to check on them and catch up, find a way to give back. Train 'Em Tough!

Lebanon Soldiers Reunite

By Stephen Lega, Lebanon News Enterprise
Wednesday, August 12, 2015

Scores of soldiers who served with a Lebanon-based U.S. Army Reserve unit returned to their old headquarters Saturday for a reunion and celebration.

"We always had great community support back then, and we still have it now," said Diane Mattingly, who retired from the unit as a master sergeant. Mattingly served for 12 years as an Army Reserve soldier with the 2-397/1st Bde/100th Division, which was based in Lebanon, and she also helped organize Saturday's reunion at the Marion County Extension Office. That building had served as the company's headquarters until the Army reorganized the division in 1995.

Col. Frank Bland, 76, was one of the oldest members of the unit present on Saturday. He said the unit was created in 1954 after the start of the Korean War, but he didn't join until a few years later. At the time it started, the unit met in some Quonset huts at the Marion County Fairgrounds.

"The American Legion built this building [now the extension office] and rented it to the Army Reserve," Bland said. "They moved into the building the night that I joined in December of 1956." Bland was one of several members of the unit who were activated during Korean War to train soldiers in Ft. Chaffee, Arkansas, during the Berlin Crisis, which was one of the multiple occasions when the unit was called to active duty. "It was just a proud group. This unit, this battalion always excelled. They won awards for being the best in the division," Bland said.

Joe Lamkin served in the 100th Division from 1981 until 2001. Lamkin had been in the Army and joined the Army Reserve when he returned to the United States after being stationed in Germany. He worked full-time for about half the year at the headquarters after joining. "Once you met people in the 100th, you became family. It's just a big family," Lamkin said.

Glenn Russell joined the 100th in March of 1986 and remained with the unit until it was reorganized in the mid-1990s. That included four years as a full-time employee at the headquarters. Russell explained that the 100th was an instructional unit that trained soldiers around the country, including Desert Storm. "The biggest thing is that our instructors would go side-by-side with active duty instructors, and the soldiers never could tell the difference," he said.

Carl Sheckles, 50, was one of the younger members of the 100th to attend Saturday's reunion. He had been serving with another Army Reserve unit when he transferred into the 100th in December of 1988. He moved again in November of 1990, but his time with the unit left an impact on him. "It was a small unit and we were very close, almost like a family," he said. Sheckles remains in the Army Reserve, and he has attained the rank of E-9, or sergeant major. He said he had good mentors in the 100th, and they are proud of what he has accomplished. "I can see the joy in their eyes that I made it to the highest rank I can make," he said.

But Saturday's event served a secondary purpose as well. Silent and live auctions raised $1,650 for the Wounded Warrior Foundation, and for at least one member of the 100th, that made the event personal as well.

Ham Ferguson joined the 100th around 1990, and he remained in the Army Reserve until 2006. He volunteered to go to Afghanistan during that time. During that deployment he was in the second vehicle traveling from their forward operating base to a village when an explosion, possibly an IED, hit the first vehicle in their convoy. "The next thing I knew, we're getting hit by an RPG," Ferguson recalled. He woke up at Bagram Air Force Base, and he said the Wounded Warrior Project was a tremendous help during his recovery and has remained a source of support along with his fellow soldiers in the 100th Division. "It was great seeing these guys," Ferguson said. "It was almost like a family reunion."

He's the short fellow in the photo. You'll remember him as Mr. Zimmerman, Sergeant Major Zimmerman, The Zman, or maybe just Ben. Ben was the G3 Staff Operations Training Officer at 100th HQ. He served 35 years as a soldier and retired as a SGM in 1993 and served 25 years as a military technician and retired from that job in the 100th in 2000. He lives in Shelbyville, KY, with wife Rennie. He has three children and they and their spouses and children and five grandchildren live in central and northern Kentucky. Ben is the executive secretary for the AOC, enjoys traveling and mission work for his church. He is also president of board of directors for his condo association in Gulf Shore, AL.

The Clyde E. Powell Annual Muster

More than 70 retired 100th Division soldiers and families gathered for a great evening of fellowship and food in honor of our dear fellow soldier the late MSG Clyde E. Powell at Berea, KY, on 6 November 2015. MSG Powell, known as "Clyde," was a dedicated soldier in 1st and 3rd Brigades of the Division, a dedicated civilian technician, a great leader and a mentor to thousands of 100th soldiers during his long careers.

The group annually recognizes retired 100th Division soldiers for their accomplishments during the many years of service in the 1st and 3rd Brigades of the Division. COL (R) Earl Sosby was presented with the MG Charles Beach Award. COL Sosby was 1st Brigade Commander, a battalion commander and was even once a 1SG in the Brigade. COL (R) James Fleenor, former 3rd Brigade Commander, presented the award.

1SG (R) Billy Moseley was presented with the CSM Harry Bonny Award. 1SG Moseley served in many responsible positions in 1st Squadron, 397th Regiment, 1st and 3rd Brigades, during his distinguished career. The late CSM Bonny was once the Division CSM and his daughter Debbie Burdette presented the award to 1SG Moseley.

This annual gathering is held the first Friday night of each November in Berea, KY, and all 100th Division soldiers and families are invited. POC is MSG (R) Pat Lambert at patricialambert@twc.com.
